

PBRA

More than Affordable Housing

Project-Based Rental Assistance (PBRA) is a crucial program that provides assistance to working families, elderly, and disabled. All areas of life are improved with access to decent and stable housing.

Assisting over 2 million individuals and families

Affordable housing is in scarce supply. Rent continues to rise faster than income making it even more difficult to secure housing.

PBRA helps families to afford modest housing and avoid homelessness and other kinds of economic instability.

Improving all areas of life

Federally assisted affordable housing has widespread and significant benefits in communities across the country. Steady housing increases work and school participation. From employment and economic mobility to health and education, all areas of life are improved when individuals and families have decent and stable housing.

Creating cost savings for governments and economic activity in communities

PBRA properties routinely provide important services to seniors and persons with disabilities to allow them to live independently, reduce hospitalization, avoid a premature move to a nursing home, and reduce astronomical costs to the federal and state governments through Medicaid.

PBRA creates additional economic activity in local communities beyond the initial housing subsidies. It directly raises owners' ability to spend on labor, materials, and other goods and services to maintain, operate, and manage rental units. PBRA directly raises resident disposable income which is then spent on other vital goods and services including food, clothes, and education.
